Do we often think about what we want to change in this world? Mahatma Gandhi once said, "Be the change that you wish to see in the world". I think it's ~~that~~ right. If you want to change something, start with yourself. You can't change everyone and everything.

My little brother dreams about everyone in the world being kind and happy. I told him that it's impossible. "Everyone is different, you can't force them to think ~~the~~ same way", I said. "Then I can be kind at least", he answered. After that, he started to do everything to make other people happy. He brings me and my mom a flower every morning, he always helps his classmates with homework. I think his words changed me a little bit. After that, I started to see the world different. I decided to help my brother to make this world better. I want to be a primary school teacher. Maybe I will help some kids to become good people.

In conclusion, I would like to say that even small kindness can change a lot. If you want to make world better, be better.
